COLLEGIATE PRESS FOUNDED TO AID IN COOPERATION

Somewhat Similar Organization to Associated Press

NO WIRES TO BE USED
SENDING COLLEGE NEWS

Mail Service From One College
Newspaper to Another Thru
the "Collegiate Press" Will Keep Institutions in Touch With Distant Activities—Organization Sponsored by the North Carolina Collegiate
Press Association—Aydtlett
First General Manager.

The Collegiate Press, an organization similar to the Associated Press
of the everyday newspaper world,
was launched at North Carolina State College during the fourteenth semi-annual convention of the North Carolina Collegiate Press Association.

The aim and purpose of the organization is to bring the newspapers of the college world into a closer contact with the live news in educational institutions throughout the state of North Carolina.

One man on the staff of each collegiate Press is to have charge of Collegiate Press activities at that college and through that newspaper.
The news of interest to other schools
is to be accumulated by this correspondent, who will mail it to those papers which he thinks will be interested as soon as it happens.

Because there is no standard publication date for college papers of the state, there will be a considerable amount of this sort of work to be done, most especially since one of the publications is a tri-weekly organ,
and news could fast become useless
at that institution.

No elaborate system and network
of wires will span the continent; no
cables will flash spot news from foreign lands; no automatic telegraph
machines will type the news as it comes in from divisional headquarters.

Instead, mail service will be used entirely, and each paper will bear
the expense of sending its copy to other publications, receiving in return the Collegiate Press service
from those papers.

Advertising of the college in an indirect way will result from the activities of the new organization, since it will put the school and names of its students in newspaper offices in different parts of the state.

Possible acquaintances or friends
of some students who are at other institutions are often apt to be engaged in something of interest to their friends in distant parts of the state. The Collegiate Press aims to carry items considered of interest in its mail service.

With the possible development of the organization, there may result a growth into a service that will cover
several adjoining states, although it is hardly thought probable that the organization is likely to become a nation-wide concern.

Sponsored by the North Carolina Collegiate Press Association for the betterment of co operative work between newspapers of colleges of this state, the Collegiate Press sent out its first mail news from the sports department of the Raleigh division at The Technician offices.

College papers throughout the state were asked to choose men to take over the duties and responsibilities of seeing that the Collegiate Press news goes on its way to other publications as soon as it breaks.

A. L. Aydtlett, of State College, was appointed by the president of the Collegiate Press Association, H. L.
Hester, as first general manager,
since he was the originator of the idea.

Agricultural Barn Warming Be Held in Gymnasium Nov. 19

One of the leading social events of the year at State College will be the annual Barn Warming, which will be held in the Frank Thompson Gymnasium November 19, from 8:30 p.m.
until 12.

The gymnasium will be well decorated to suit the occasion with bales
of hay, bales of straw, corn-stalks, citron stalks, pumpkins, pine trees, oak trees, poplar trees, etc., all with their array of the many and varied colors of leaves to insure the nature lover has a good time and love as he never loved before.

There will be a good orchestra to lend the soft strains of music and in-termingle them with the grandeur seen in nature at this time of year; to open the love potions of the hearts of the farmer and his farmette who will be clad in their overalls and gingham;
and to make possible the old-time
square dancing, Virginia reel, and the present-day dances of slow, dreamy waltzes, the puppy fox trots, and any others that are desired.

With all of this there will be many other forms of entertainment, such as hog-calling contests, clog-dancing contests, dog-calling contests, rolling a wheelbarrow while blindfolded, and the crowning of the Barn Warming Queen.

Refreshments of good quality and large quantity will be served to help relieve the pangs of thirst and hunger.
The lights will be so arranged that a great big moon and many bright stars will pour their soft and mellow
rays down through the colorful decorations to add to the loveliness of the event.

The entrance will be similar to that of strolling down a little crooked path toward the stream where you must cross on a foot-log, or where you have to climb one of the almost extinct zig-zag rail fences. This will necessitate the farmer lad helping his charming farmette across the fence, or foot-log,

in a manner similar to that of Sir
Walter Raleigh in the days of Queen Elizabeth.

The Meredith girls, also town girls,
will be there in great numbers to add to the occasion with their charm, beauty, and attractiveness. They will play the part of the little farmette in her gingham dress with her hair streaming down her back from under her quaint little bonnet.

With these soft and mellow lights
throwing their rays upon the happy
couples through nature's color scheme,
and the sweet strains of music floating across the floor to every ear, and the beautiful little farmettes dressed in their gingham with one hand in the grasp of their farmer lad, the occasion
lends itself to one of happiness, love,
and joy.

Those who are in charge of the Barn
Warming this year are:

F. S. Sloan, chairman.
W. P. Albright, assistant chairman.
J. D. McCall, chairman of tree committee.

A. E. Tucker, chairman of hay committee.

D. H. Moody, chairman of interior decoration committee.
R. W. Shoffner, chairman of entertainment committee.

T. L. Moore, chairman of refreshment committee.

H. H. Jobe, chairman of light committee.

E. T. Frisbie, chairman of entrance
committee.

N. L. Hendrix, chairman of finance
committee.

DR. C. L. GREAVES DIES SUDDENLY WEDNESDAY

Was Pastor of Tabernacle Baptist Church Five Years; Loss
Keenly Felt by Friends

The sudden death of Dr. Charles L.
Greaves, pastor of the Tabernacle Baptist Church, at seven o'clock Wednesday morning, shocked his congregation
and large circle of friends outside the church which he served so faithfully.

Doctor Greaves was apparently in the best of health when he retired the evening before, and had attended a meeting of the Civitan Club, of which he was a member, the previous day.

Of kindly nature and a sincere man,
his loss will be felt by all who knew him. Doctor Greaves was in his fifty-sixth year, thirty-three of which he had served as a minister of the gospel.

Since taking the pastorate of the Tabernacle Baptist Church, more than five years ago, the church has grown in all departments. A new Sunday School building has been erected and
the membership has greatly increased.
Doctor Greaves was very popular with his congregation and visitors attended
his sermons in large numbers.

Doctor Greaves' sympathy and interest in young people had won for him
the love of the students of the Hugh Morson High School, just across the street from the church. He had often conducted chapel services for the high school. School was dismissed at 2:00 o'clock Thursday afternoon to allow students and teachers to attend the funeral.

Dr. Greaves was born in Pasquotank County, June 12, 1872. He received the degree of Doctor of Divinity from Wake Forest College, of which he was a graduate. He also studied at the Louisville Baptist Seminary, at Louisville, Ky. He held pastorates at Leas-ville Baptist churches in North Carolina
and neighboring states.

He is survived by his wife, a daughter, Mary Ruth Greaves, of Raleigh,
and two sons, Prof. Charles Paschal Greaves, of Philadelphia, and Richard
E. Greaves, of Raleigh.

Interment was in Oakwood Cemetery
Thursday afternoon.

COLLEGE REGIMENT WILL PARADE ARMISTICE DAY

Not to Interfere With Attendance at Game—No Drill
Following Monday

As a part of the Armistice Day celebration, the State College R. O. T. C.
Regiment will parade downtown on November 11, along with the National Guard unit and Reserve Corps.

Very elaborate plans are being made for the parade, which will consist of a number of outside organizations as well as the military units.

The parade will be reviewed by the State Commander of the American Legion, the chairman of the Armistice Day celebration, along with the state,
county, and city officials.

Immediately following the ceremony
the participants of the parade will return to Pullen Hall at State College
and hear a short talk given by Dr. E.
D. Soper, of Duke University. Dr.
Soper is an outstanding speaker of the State and also of the South.

The Armistice Day celebration and ceremonies will in no way interfere with the plans of the students to attend the football game with Duke University on the afternoon of November 11. There will be no drill on Monday following the Armistice Day celebration.

OFFICERS OF SELF-HELP CLUB GIVE TALKS ABOUT PLANS FOR COMING YEAR

At the Monday night meeting of the Self-Help Club the officers gave brief talks on their plans for the coming year.

The club, after hearing the condition of two sincere freshmen that needed work very badly, asked the chairman of the work committee to aid them if he could. He did so at once, and before the meeting adjourned reported that he had work
for them if they could find the time to take it.

College Press To Hold Next Meet at Duke

Closing a three-day session Saturday of last week at 1 o'clock, the fourteenth semi-annual convention of the North Carolina Collegiate Press Association adjourned to meet at Duke University next spring, after having attended what several expressed as the "best yet" meeting at North Carolina State College.

Several of the delegates from other schools remained over to attend the North Carolina State-University of North Carolina football game, tickets to which were furnished at half price
through the courtesy of the Department of Athletics at North Carolina State.

The pledge dances at the Frank Thompson Gymnasium were well attended by the out-of-town guests at this institution Friday afternoon and night and Saturday night.

Exactly one hundred were registered for the fall convention of the association. These delegates represented school publications from one side of the state of North Carolina to the other. This was the largest of any previous attendance at any of the press association meetings held since its formation.

A banquet given the newspaper
and magazine groups by the Capital
Printing Company at the Edenton Street Methodist Church and one given the annual representatives by Edwards and Broughton Printing Company at the Sir Walter Hotel, followed by a theatre party through
the courtesy of the State Theatre,
featured the program of Thursday
night.

Friday was given over to business
sessions and listening to discourses
on various phases of the publication
game. Luncheon at the Yarrowburgh Hotel, through the courtesy of the News and Observer and North Carolina State College, occupied the middle of the day. The regular press association banquet took place Friday night at the same place.

Friday afternoon a tour of Raleigh
was given to those who did not wish to attend the dance.

Saturday business sessions closed
the fall convention and brought forth
the invitation to hold the spring meeting at Duke, an invitation which was favorably voted on by the assembled delegates.

DURHAM COUNTY ALUMNI CHAPTER IS REORGANIZED

lete of State College.

With the reorganization of the Alumni Association, it was decided to promote an active association in Durham County. The next meeting of the Baptist Meet Thought Most Successful Yet

The Baptist Student Conference,
with its great aim, "Make Christ Master of Our Generation," held the most successful meeting of its history the past Friday, Saturday, and Sunday at Pullen Memorial Church.

Friday night marked the first session of the conference. All business matters were handled exceedingly well
under the guidance of its able chairman, Mr. R. Paul Caddill, a student of Wake Forest College. The subsequent sessions were given over to the many excellent speakers and student-leaders of the conference.

State College entertained the boys
and Meredith was host to the girls.

The State-Carolina football game on Riddick Field Saturday afternoon was the high spot of the entertainments.

Chowan College is to have the next annual meeting. All expressed a desire to attend and make it another great success.

The conference is promoted jointly by the following: State Student Committee, the interboard commission, Mr.
Frank H. Leavell, executive secretary,
Memphis, Tenn., and the General
Board of the Baptist State Convention.

The five hundred students who attended this conference heard the following outstanding speakers: Dr. Wm.
Russell Owens, Coral Gables, Fla.; Dr.
George Leavell, China; Dr. J. E. Dil-lard, Birmingham, Ala.; Dr. J. A. Ellis, Raleigh; Dr. C. Clyde Turner, Greensboro; Dr. Chas. E. Maddry, Raleigh;
Mr. Frank H. Leavell, Memphis, Tenn.

dress the R. O. T. C. unit on the subject of "Citizenship."

Miss Leighton is now on a lecture
tour of the United States for the various chapters of the Daughters of the American Revolution. The members of the R. O. T. C. unit are extremely fortunate in having the opportunity to hear Miss Leighton.

There will be no regular drill on this day, and the lecture given at that hour will be attended by the entire regiment.

12,000 See Game End in 19-6 Score in Favor of Wolfpack

McDowall Secures Goal, Followed by Adams' Kick From Placement—Warren Pals
Down Second Marker and Hunsucker Scores Third Goal
—Sapp Makes Only Carolina
Number.

By T. A. VERNON

Playing in its best form, the Wolfpack took the long end of the score
from the University Tar Heels here Home-coming Day last Saturday. The final score was 19-6.

The fans could hardly realize what had happened. It came as a great blow. "State has beaten Carolina for the first time since 1921," were the cries that were circulating around on the campus.

Jack McDowall, termed as Big Wolf, led the Wolves to victory. Time after time the crowd of 12,000 who visited Riddick Field to see history upset
were thrilled when this tall, lanky McDowall would kick, throw, or carry
the ball far into the enemy territory.

It was McDowall Day. His playing featured the first-half play. During the first two periods State had things going their way, and scored their first two touchdowns in the first two periods.

The first touchdown came after
State had gotten the ball on Carolina's 48-yard line. Two line plays gained five yards, and on the next, a double play, McDowall dropped back and sent the ball spinning to Hunsucker for a 25-yard gain. A line play gained four, and a pass from McDowall went for naught, but Adams stepped back and shot a pass to Childress to put the ball on the 6-yard line. McDowall skirted the left end for a long run that put him across the goal line for the first score of the game. Adams kicked the goal from placement.

State had broken through and scored. From that time on until the game ended, State kept well up with things.

The second touchdown came right out of the air. McDowall had shot a pass to Childress. The pass was for 31 yards, and the star end raced 13 yards before being brought down.

Another pass from McDowall to Warren just made enough for first down
and to put the ball on the 42-yard line. Carolina was penalized half the distance to the goal for taking too much time out, and on the next play,
a fake, Warren rushed over for the second marker. The try from placement failed.

From the second half on Carolina gained strength. No one except those in the dressing room knows what Coach Collins told the Heels, but they came back, and for a time things looked dark in the Tech camp. They played better football, but they were still opposed by the determined Pack.
State played defensive most all the half, but when it did get the ball they tried hard to repeat the first-half performance. Carolina failed to register
a single first down in the first period,
but came back in the second half and
made ten.

The next State score came after Ridenhour had intercepted a Carolina pass and raced to the 5-yard line.

WOLVES BEAT CAROLINA 19-6

McDowall got the ball next and started to the right, and Carolina started after him, but he had other plans, so he passed the ball to the waiting Hunsucker, who was perched across the goal line. He caught it, and State had scored another. The try for point failed.

The Carolina score preceded the last State marker by a few minutes. Carolina started her drive from State's 48-yard line, and with line plays and passes galore carried the ball to the 35-yard line, when Gresham dropped back and shot the oval to Sapp, who raced thirty yards for the only Carolina score of the day.

State had a galaxy of stars, but McDowall and Warren stood out most prominently on the offense, and in the line Nicholson, Lepo, and Vaughn were best. Don Childress put up a nice exhibition on end. Goodwin and Jordan, alternating at end, also put up a nice fight.

Farris, who won a berth on the varsity only last week, stood out among the Carolina players. Ad Warren and Capp were also good. Gresham was the outstanding ground-gainer for the Heels.

The line-up and summary:

| Carolina (6) | Position | State (19) |
|--------------|--------------|---------------|
| Sapp | Left End | Jordan |
| Morehead (C) | Left Tackle | Evans |
| Farris | Left Guard | Vaughn |
| Schwartz | Center | Metts |

MORE ATTENTION BEING GIVEN TO PHYSICAL ED.

Extensive Program Is Worked Out by Heads of the Department

Physical education is being stressed more this year than ever before at State College. Nine hundred and eight freshmen and sophomores are taking the regular course, which calls for two one-hour periods a week. A program which makes the work progressive in nature is marked out by Mr. Miller, the head of the department. Coaches Drennen, Doak, and Slaughter are the instructors.

All classes have uniform work, which consists of five minutes setting-up exercises with emphasis on posture. The next twenty minutes are devoted to soccer, preparatory to the inter-class soccer league later on in the season. The boys then have five minutes of endurance work to get them in shape for the annual cross-country meet in which all classes participate.

One hundred and forty-five men have been transferred to varsity and freshman football, varsity and freshman cross-country, and varsity wrestling. These men have daily workouts.

A check was made of the entire department, and sixty-two men were placed in corrective classes because of some slight defect, such as flat feet or fallen arches. Some of the men have undeveloped shoulders and chests, caused by their rapid growth. A few cases of curvature of the spine were found. This is usually caused by faulty standing and sitting positions.

Mr. Miller has six of these corrective classes, which consist of about twelve men each. Individual exercises are given and much stress is laid on posture. The results are surprisingly good.

There are twelve men in football coaching, under Gus Tebell. In another class Mr. Miller teaches the history and principles of physical education to fourteen men.

Practically all of the work this fall has been out-of-doors. Besides stressing posture, the instructors have worked diligently for the coordination of the hands, body, and feet by popular sports. In this way the work is not only instructive, but recreative and competitive as well.

LA FAUTE D'UNE CLASSE D'ESPAGNOL

Tout Est Bien, Qui Finit Bien— Quelquefois! Quel Dommage! Attention, Français!

(PAR R. LINWOOD LANCASTER)
He! Tous les élèves de français! J'ai une leçon pour vous! Pas une leçon française, mais une leçon qui vaut beaucoup pour les élèves de français. Et pour les élèves d'espagnol aussi! No! Les élèves d'espagnol savent déjà! Combien ils savent! Ils—mais n'importe!

Ah, la leçon! C'est une leçon triste. Faites attention! Un jour de la semaine dernière la classe d'espagnol de huit-heures du Professeur Ballenger arrivait à la salle de classe à huit heures—à bonne heure, mais le professeur n'était pas là.

Immédiatement, la classe recut l'espoir que le professeur ne viendrait pas à tout ce jour-là. Les minutes passèrent lentement. A huit heures dix quelque'un dit: "Le professeur n'est pas ici; allons!"

"Bien! Le Professeur Ballenger ne viendra pas aujourd'hui; allons!" Le classe partit.

Après deux minutes—à huit heures douze—le Professeur Ballenger vint. "Où est ma classe?" il demanda. "Ella est partie! Mes élèves sont-ils malades? No! Il leur faut avoir eu une nuit difficile! Ils me sont partis. Eh bien! Ils seront un peu gros le vendredi! Je les donnerai un examen! Peut-être ils auront beaucoup de chagrins!"

En effet, la classe avait des chagrins! Le vendredi! Le professeur adressa sa classe un peu après ce langage: "Fesseurs, une fois chaque an—écoutez, UNE fois!—une de mes classes fait l'école foussinière. Seulement une classe parce que cette classe-là est un exemple pour toutes les autres classes. Je vous donnerai un examen que vous ferez penser, et penser, et penser plus!"

"Mais, professeur, nous vous attendons dix minutes, et—"

"Dix minutes! Allons donc! Ce ne me vaut pas; ne pouvez-vous pas m'attendre deux minutes de plus?" "Nous pensames—"

"Ah, si vous avez pense? Merveilleux! Mais c'est égal. Je crains que vous serons un peu gros après aujourd'hui. Ah, mauvais sujets! Quel dommage! Quel dommage!"

Le professeur mit l'examen au tableau noir—une centaine de questions en trois parties. Parmi les questions étaient celles:

"Où est le professeur?
Il n'est pas ici!
Quelle heure est-il?
Le professeur n'est pas venu; allons! Bien! Allons maintenant!
Nous sommes partis.
Nous avons un examen le vendredi. Il est le vendredi.
L'examen est long et difficile!
Nous sommes malheureux—si malheureux!"

Et on dit que cette classe d'espagnol écrit, et écrit, et écrit plus!—Mais seulement quelques-uns finissent!

SI, vous français, acceptez cette leçon—et attendez au Professeur Ballenger plus long que dix minutes. Le professeur sera très bien le maxime: Rira bien que rira le dernier!

Allen Nelms: "Virginia has a funny growth behind her nose."
Louis Warren: "Where did she get it?"

FRESHMEN HEAR LECTURES ABOUT USES OF LIBRARY

Frank Capps Shows New Men the Way to Get Best Results

Freshmen having English classes on last Monday were excused from class work to hear a lecture on the use of the college library, by Frank Capps, librarian. The lecture was repeated each hour throughout the afternoon.

For years freshmen have been coming into college without any idea of how to use a library, or look up information. Mr. Capps has taken a forward step in teaching new men the right way to use the library.

Each section of the freshman class was brought into the library, where the librarian illustrated and demonstrated just how to use the card catalog, periodical guide to literature, and all other aids to the proper use of the college library.

This plan will help new men get information that others before them, through lack of training, could not get.

Another quest for modern Balboas

COLUMBUS made possible Balboa, and just so Bell has made possible the pathfinders in telephony who are now turning his vision into reality.

They are pioneering at the drafting board, in the manufacturing departments, in the field and in the work which underlies all activity—management. In executive and administrative control, in the supervisor's opportunity to guide and inspire, there is no limit to the possibilities of the progressive idea.

The questing spirit into new fields has achieved much, but the way remains open for men of the coming generation to carry the telephone industry to still greater heights of service.

WOLF PACK AND HARRIERS IN G'BORO

Coach Tebell Drilled Team Hard in Preparation for Strong Davidson Team

The State College Wolfpack faces another strong enemy when they meet the Davidson Wildcats this afternoon in the World War Memorial Stadium at Greensboro.

State College students have flocked to the Gate City for the game with the 'Cats that will mean so much to State. The outcome of the State Championship may rest there.

If State wins over the Wildcats, the next game is with Duke. They won in 1925, 9-0. Last year Dick Grey hooted one over the posts for a field goal, game, and a State Championship.

Whether or not State wins from Davidson this year depends upon how the air attack goes across. Gus Tebell, head coach, has been driving the Wolves hard on passing this week, and it is believed that the Wolves will let the Wildcats have it from the air this afternoon. The success of the air depends upon whether or not it will be used much against Duke, it is believed.

Coach Tebell has not announced the opening line-up, but it is probable it will be the same as against Carolina, except that Goodwin will be at end in the place of Jordan.

The probable line-up:

Goodwin, left end.
Evans, left tackle.
Vaughn, left guard.
Metts, center.
Nicholson, right guard.
Lopo, right tackle.
Childress, right end.
Adams, quarterback.
McDowall, left halfback.
Warren, fullback.

The local yearlings presented an ironclad defense against the efforts of the Wolves. State's two long first downs came after Wake Forest passed, and there was not another time when the visitors even so much as threatened to make the required distance in four attempts. Parker, Levine, and Grant were the mainstays in the Deacon line that smashed practically every State play before it could do any damage.

Gregson was a consistent gainer through State's line. Hipps did several thrilling broken field dashes, and was on the receiving end of many Wake Forest passes. He was the brightest looking ball carrier on the day to meet the yearlings of the Unihalf, were also responsible for the completion of many of Mullin's shoots, while Red Taylor, Wake Forest's acquisition from the Hurricane, was another potent factor in the Deacon passing game.

The Wolves' line was weak. Hargrave and Edmondson in the rear ranks, however, played some nice football for the losers. Hargrave's punting was above par, and it was largely due to his work that Wake Forest didn't score additional touchdowns.

The line-up: State Fresh (0)

Levine Left Guard McNeil

Hicks Right Guard Hatcher

CROSS-COUNTRY MEN OF STATE COLLEGE

The State College cross-country team will have their third meet of the season this afternoon when they meet the Davidson harriers in the World War Memorial Stadium between the halves of the State-Davidson football game.

So far this year the State team has lost one meet and won the other. They emerged victorious against the Clemson distance men, but last Saturday they lost to the Carolina southern champion cross-country men.

Five Carolina men paraded across the final line to tie for first place. State took second place, but after Carolina had taken first place between so many men, second was not so good. The following men are on the trip: Hoyle, Rogers, Redfern, Alexander, Simmerson, Baker, Loman, Brimley, and the assistant manager.

Ralph Brimley is captain and coach of the local harriers.

DRENNEN'S YEARLINGS TO MEET TAR HEEL CUBS

Coach J. F. Drennen's State College freshman eleven are in Chapel Hill to meet the yearlings of the University of North Carolina on the grid this afternoon.

The yearlings have a much improved team since the Wake Forest game last week when they lost to the Baby Deacons 26 to 0.

The line-up was not announced, but it is expected that Coach Drennen will start the Wolfcubs as he did against Wake Forest.

YEARLINGS LOSE TO BABY DEACONS 26-0

State Wolflets Are Unable to Do Much With Strong Wake Forest Aggregation

Wake Forest, Oct. 23.—Mustering a brilliant aerial offense that netted a gain of 225 yards in fourteen passes completed out of eighteen attempts, Coach Lingler's Baby Deacons this afternoon outclassed the Wolflets of N. C. State, and won handily, 26 to 0. Wake Forest made twenty-one first downs as against two for the State Cubs, both of which came as a result of penalties.

The local yearlings presented an ironclad defense against the efforts of the Wolflets. State's two long first downs came after Wake Forest passed, and there was not another time when the visitors even so much as threatened to make the required distance in four attempts. Parker, Levine, and Grant were the mainstays in the Deacon line that smashed practically every State play before it could do any damage.

LABOR DISPLACEMENT AFFECTS PROSPERITY

Los Angeles, Oct. 19.—"Will the continued replacement of labor by automatic machinery lead us down with chronic and steadily increasing unemployment?" asked Secretary of Labor Davis in an address to the A. F. of L. convention.

The Cabinet official indicated that no trade is immune from this invasion, and the situation is of "the gravest importance to the employer and to the country at large."

"By the figures supplied me from the Bureau of Labor Statistics," he said, "I learn that from our increase in population in the last eight or ten years it now should take 140 men to supply the needs of the country where 100 could do so. Instead of that, and in spite of our having 20,000,000 more people, the needs of the country are supplied with 7 per cent fewer workers than we needed in 1919.

"We lower national prosperity 7 per cent if we permit 7 per cent of our workers to pass on of the consuming and buying market. In a way, whenever a man loses a job, we all lose at the same time. For business reasons we must keep our workers employed.

"I believe public opinion will soon expect every employer to regard it as a duty to introduce no labor-saving machine without seeing to the continued employment of the men thrown out of work by the new machine. Otherwise, we do not 'save' labor, but waste it."

The Wolves did it. For the third time since 1894 they romped all over the Tar Heels of Carolina and won, 19-6.

Again Jack McDowall gets the lion's share of the praise from the sports writers and fans. He deserves it. The game today with the Wildcats will see him in the last stages of his college football career. State fans will be able to see him only three times after then.

Another veteran State player, Captain N. B. Nicholson, is also on his last legs. For nearly three years Nick and Jack have battled for the glory of State on the gridiron.

State's star ends, Goodwin and Childress, also came in for a good bit of the praise at the end of the game. Jordan, another up-and-coming youngster, played a good game at left end.

Coach Tebell announced yesterday morning that the same line would start against Davidson that went against Carolina, with the exception of Jordan, who will be replaced by Goodwin.

He did not announce definite positions in the back field, but said that either Hunsucker or Crum would draw the halfback position.

The State Harriers did not do so well against the Carolina cross-country men last week. Five Carolina men came in in the first five places, only they all linked hands and stepped across the final line together.

Coach Passaligga announced that the freshman football squad had automatically cut itself to about 35 men. The coaches did not make any cut on the squad but allowed them to do their own cutting.

Old Skinfint: "Here, boy; what's all this extra about?"
Newsboy: "Great swindle; sixty victims."

Old Skinfint: "I don't see anything in here about a swindle."
Newsboy: "Extra! Great swindle! Sixty-one victims!"

"What is the greatest water power known to man?"
"Woman's tears."

'Greek' Kellam Gets Fistic Opportunity

Boxes 'Irish' Tom Gallagher at Boxing Show in Auditorium on Monday Night

"Greek" Kellam gets the opportunity of his lifetime, as far as the squared circle is concerned. "Greek" will engage "Irish Tom" Gallagher, a tough little scrapper from Durham, for eight rounds at Jack Larken's all-star boxing show in the city auditorium. Kellam decided recently that he would enter the ring and try to make a livelihood out of the game. "Greek" will go at it in earnest this time. He will box under the name of Tommie Fagan.

Those who have watched Fagan in action will attest to the fact that he has the makings of a good scrapper and with proper schooling and handling should go far in his chosen profession. Fagan has been working out at the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium with the Scranton "Coal Cracker," Willie Greb Greb is the boy who knocked out Lee "Kid" Johnson in four rounds at Larken's last show. Willie is a member of the squared circle that knows all about the art of self-defense. Greb is loud in his praise of "Greek" and showed the bristling blonde a few tricks. Greb will meet Spike Webb in the final ten-round bout of the show in which Tommie Fagan makes his initial bow. If support means anything to Tommie, Jack McDowall, our own football star, will be chief second for Tommie on that evening.

After a brisk workout recently "Greek" had the following statement to make: "Boys, I am getting down to business this time as you can readily see, and I am going into that ring on Monday night in the best of shape, and will do my utmost to come through with flying colors. I will try my level best to knock Gallagher clear off his feet. I have fought the Durham lad before and I think I can prove that I am a master."

Beside the Greb-Webb and Fagan-Gallagher contests there will be two other star bouts and a battle royal between several gentlemen of color. A referee for the battle royal is wanted by Promoter Jack Larken, and anyone who wants the job can get it by applying for same. R. I. P.

Coach "Buck" Drennen has been chosen by Boxing Commissioner R. S. Busbee as the third man in the ring for all the bouts. Coach Drennen is a very competent man and all fans can be assured of a run for their money.

Paragraphics

Thank heaven! the press convention is over.

We did have a good time in spite of all the work we had to go through in preparation.

Please don't consider this issue too much of a botched job.

The editor has retired for a couple of weeks to ease up his frazzled nerves.

Yeah, he wanted to leave the managing editor to hold the sack for a while.

Remember in your criticism that this is the first time we've had hold of this newspaper.

It is sincerely hoped that you are not too much disappointed or disgusted.

The whole staff is hoping the boss will soon be back in our quarters before the rest of us have our break downs.

The North Carolina Collegiate Press Association extends hearty and most sincere appreciation to all those who made possible the nicety and ease with which the convention was carried off.

We're looking forward to going to Duke for the spring meeting.

Forensic contests are not far off. We'd like to see an almost innumerable number meet with Professor Cunningham and put State College on the map bigger than ever, and again this year to make California recognize us.

That brings to mind the dramatic organizations that were partly begun last year. Is there no interest whatever on this campus in play-making?

Such an organization would be one of the best advertising cards this institution could possibly have. Look at the University of North Carolina "Carolina Playmakers."

They have even played on Broadway. So could we.

This is the last one of our brief bull-lets.

Speaking of free advertising, we observe the appearance of the picture of Constance Talmadge, the movie actress, in ten different advertisements in Liberty for October 29. Also in this same issue of Liberty are two advertisements of Miss Talmadge's latest picture and eight other advertisements, advertising the following in order: alarm clocks, wrist watches, chewing gum, jewelry, automobile tires, radio tubes, fat-reducing tablets, and cigarette lighters. If you do not believe it, look it up!

SIGNS OF THE TIMES

While other work is in the process of construction about the campus, why not consider the erection of a centrally located bulletin board? There are many things that are of interest, nominally or necessarily to the students, that often pass by unnoticed.

If there were some central place where things could be posted, and that place where nearly every student would pass it, it would make things easier for faculty and boys.

An attractive board somewhere in the court between Holladay, Peele, Watauga, and the dining hall would more than likely be seen by the greater part of the student body.

Something like this would be comparatively cheap, and would be as great a labor and step-saver for campus residents, perhaps, as a kitchen cabinet is for a housewife.

We are very well acquainted with the fact that there is a small billboard in practically all the classroom buildings about the campus, yet how many of the students even give a passing glance at these when they are in a hurry to catch their next class?

With a centralized broadcasting agency for important happenings on our home grounds, we think that things will be made easier for all that are likely to have anything of interest to impart or to receive.

Why not have the administration consider the matter? Will you?

A GOOD IDEA

Rather than submit to an excess of paddling, the pledges of one of the local fraternities are going out for outside activities. The upperclassmen in this group are to be commended for the innovation of this option to the new men.

In this way there is much good material showing up in the football squads and other athletic teams that would otherwise be hidden for perhaps an entire four years.

Not only the athletic department is getting some of the new material, but there are other organizations about the campus that are now having a chance to pick their men from a competitive standpoint instead of having as formerly to take up any material that presented itself in order to get enough to carry on the work.

We think this fraternity has started something which would be of great benefit to State College if all the social groups of the institutions were to adopt the same practice.

Would it be possible for the rest of the fraternities to pick up something along the same line? When all is said and done, the greater part of a college education comes from outside contacts and activities rather than from the classrooms.

Won't you fraternities think it over and better your new men by giving them the option of activities or frequent paddlings? You know which they will choose.

S. O. S.

For the luva Mike, can't some one somewhere about the campus stir up enough interest in journalism to Save Our Skins! With the Technician affairs in their present state, we all shall soon be ready to go under with the current unless aid comes up from some kind-hearted lifeguard.

This newspaper needs several men to do reportorial, headline, and other kinds of work around the office. There are any number of positions open to those who have any desire or ambition to try anything once.

With more help it will make it easier for the staff to get out a better paper with much less work. With a better paper we can help put State College, or keep it, on the map.

Dr. Brooks remarked the other day that this newspaper was a credit to the institution. If it is so, it is because co-operation among the students has made it such. Better co-operation and more work on the part of all of us will make the publications more than a credit to the school—it will make them an asset.

There is a kick in this kind of work which you cannot know until you once try it. This is the third year we have been with this paper, and before that we fooled around with a small high school semimonthly publication. We have worked with the Associated Press and with a regular daily newspaper. The more of it we do the more we feel like we want to do.

This kind of work is the most nerve-racking and tedious in the world, yet it makes up for all that by the fascination and fun of printing labors. You never know what is going to happen the next minute; something comes up that kills all the importance of previous news.

Come on, some of you fellows—freshmen, sophomores, juniors, seniors—all are welcome. We'll do what we can to start you off in the best way we know how, and if you don't like it you will at least have gained something. Then, too, there are no strings tied to you. If you find you haven't the time or for some other reason you wish to quit, there will be no attempt to keep you at it.

But you won't want to quit. Try the Technician. Its work guarantees you satisfaction. Wake up and come around to see us. You'll stick for the rest of your college career!

A LIVE ONE

The growl of State's Wolf at the State-College game was sufficiently loud to indicate that he is old enough and large enough to be taken from the nursery. This growl signifies that the time has come for the great open spaces for our prodigy, "The Wolf," or else he languishes and dies. He has sent his voice out against the night for recognition and freedom, and unless given this he will return again to his nursery lair and whimper his life's ambition away. Given the freedom desired, this young power will grow into a stalwart force that nothing can stop or hinder.

State has always had a wonderful and strong Wolfpack, but it has never before realized its power as this year. State has struck a stride that will be difficult to stop.

We should have as symbolic of our name "Wolfpack" a live wolf at each of our games. No game should be played on Riddick Field without our wolf being there, or a game in North Carolina for that matter. It would add greatly to the spirit of the game if we had a wolf to take to Greensboro for the Davidson game. No one single thing would add as much spirit to the rosters of State as a real wolf. Therefore, let steps be taken to have a wolf on the field by next year at the latest. Some alumnus who has settled in the wild and woolly west might corral one in from his ranch and send it to the Wolfpack. But some means should be taken to obtain a sure enough live wolf for our mascot. J. B. BRITT.

CO-EDS

Co-eds on the campus of State College are no longer objects of derision and the assailants of fanatics whose motto is "Down with co-eds!" Our worst enemy has left us and so far no one has taken it upon himself to take his place. We have made the male members of the college realize that we are here and are here to stay.

Co-eds, why not combine ourselves into some sort of organization? There are clubs on the campus of fewer members than nine, and why cannot the nine of us organize ourselves into some sort of group called the "Feministic Movement for the Betterment of State College," or the "Society for the Uplift of West Raleigh," or the "Club for the Furtherance of Co-education?" Why not even a Greek letter sorority? We should do something in this line. When we, who are planning to graduate, have our pictures in The Agromech we want some sort of write-up about our activities, and as it stands now there are very few things that we can be long to. There is not much "force" to us now, but by organization we could shine with the brightness of the aurora borealis.

Think about this, co-eds, and remember that "united we stand, divided we fall"—into whose hands we know not.

FIRST COMBINED MEETING OF SIX SOCIETIES HELD

The first combined meeting of the six technical societies of the campus was held Tuesday night, November 1st, in Room 101 of the Electrical Building, when it was especially gratifying to the members of the Engineers' Council to see the response of the engineers to this idea. There were some seventy-five engineers and many faculty members present.

President G. P. Hall of the Engineers' Council introduced Professor A. F. Greaves-Walker, Director of the Ceramic Engineering Department, who gave an interesting and valuable talk on "Modern Types of Brick Construction." His talk was made more vivid and interesting by the use of the balopticon. The various bonds and methods by which brick may be laid up so as to make really beautiful buildings, and with practically no increase in cost over frame jobs, was plainly brought out by the speaker. Those present learned that the possibilities of using brick are tremendous, and that this section has only just begun to take advantage of them. Views of brick work in other sections of the country which are absolutely new here were shown.

The meeting was sponsored by the American Ceramic Society. The second combined meeting will be put on by the Architectural Club some time in December, the exact time and place and the speaker to be announced later. It is hoped by the Engineers' Council that a greater number of engineers will be on hand at that time, as the meetings are held with the idea of giving the engineers of State College something they do not get in classrooms.

The stars were shining brightly. It was one of those beautiful spring nights. The young lovers were driving down a country road. Her breath came quickly and deeply. She was thrilled by the beauty of the night. They reached a cozy secluded spot where the moonlight filtered through the foliage overhead. He came to a halt, and as the noise of the engine ceased, a mocking-bird could be heard in the distance, singing as if his heart would burst. She looked up expectantly, then gently rested one cheek against his cool sleeve. What do you suppose the fool did? Why he tumbled in his pocket for a "Chesterfield," and after lighting it, drove on.

C. R. BAUGHAM TO REPRESENT FRAT AT ANNUAL MEET

C. R. Baugham, representing the local chapter of the Alpha Gamma Rho fraternity, left the first of this week for Lexington, Kentucky, where he will attend the national convention of Alpha Gamma Rho. The host will be the Omicron Chapter of the University of Kentucky.

Every year the fraternity holds a national convention, last year's meeting being held at Lansing, Michigan. Last year the local chapter was represented by G. C. Moyer. The convention starts November 3 and lasts through November 5.

Mr. Baugham is Noble Ruler of the State College chapter, and expressed his opinion that this year's convention at Lexington would be the most successful ever held.

Two Scotchmen bet a dollar on who could keep his head under water the longest—so they both drowned.

A man from the country was spending the night in a modern hotel. "Well, did you have a good night's rest?" the clerk asked him the next morning. "No, I didn't" was the reply. "The room was alright, and the bed was pretty good, but I couldn't sleep very much for I was afraid someone might want to take a bath and the only door to it was through my room."

How will your office look?

Not like this, of course

Yet you will find in it a dozen jobs that can be done more quickly and effectively by electricity—and done so quietly as to be practically unnoticed. In fact, electricity has completely revolutionized many office methods.

YOUR FATHER probably will recall the days of high stools, eyeshades, and evenings overtime.

But visit a modern office! A thousand letters to go out by four o'clock. A new price list to all customers in to-night's mail, without fail. Enter electricity. Two or three people turn switches, and the finished letters come out of an ingenious machine. Another motion and they are sealed and stamped. Only electricity could get that job done.

Here's a statistical job. The reports are in; thousands of figures to analyze. Looks like overtime for fifty clerks. "Certainly not," answers electricity, as a button starts the motor-driven sorters and tabulators. Key cards are punched with lightning fingers. Electric sorters devour 24,000 cards an hour. Tabulators add quantities and amounts in jig time, and print the totals.

Go to almost any bank today. Hand in your account book. Click, click, click, goes the electric book-keeping machine and back comes the book to you. Five operations performed in that brief moment. Everybody saves time,—you, the clerk, the bank,—when electricity is the book-keeper.

In the office of to-morrow you will find "electrical fingers" doing more work than even to-day.

This familiar mark appears on many electrical products, including motors that drive pumps and labor-saving office machines.

ZOOLOGY DEPT GATHERS COLLECTION OF REPTILES

Many Snakes From All Over the State Are Included in the Lot

The Zoology Department has recently gotten together a collection of snakes and other reptiles of this state. It includes both the poisonous and non-poisonous species.

The poisonous snakes include the following: the copperhead, found on the uplands of all sections of the state; the pigmy rattlesnake, formerly found throughout the state, but now extinct in some sections; the banded rattler, found in the mountains of this state; and the cottonmouth moccasin, found in the swamps of the eastern part of the state.

All of these snakes are pit vipers—they have a pit in the head between the eye and the nostril. They also have what is known as a slit eye, the pupil of the eye is very much elongated.

The collection of non-poisonous snakes includes the following: the bull snake, the black snake, the glass snake, the green snake, the brown water snake, and three species of king snakes. Most of these snakes are found in all sections of the state and are beneficial rather than harmful.

They have a specimen of the gila monster, the only poisonous lizard in America. He is found in the desert regions of the southwest.

To round out the collection they have some horned toads, an eel, and three snapper turtles.

These reptiles are fed on insects or raw meat, generally rats and mice.

DR. COBB COMPLETES WORK FOR PH.D. DEGREE AT U.N.C.

Subject of Thesis, "The Development of Piedmont North Carolina Soils"

Dr. Wm. B. Cobb, associate professor of Geology and Soils at this college, completed his work for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy at the University of North Carolina last June.

He carried on some important experiments in obtaining this degree. The subject of his thesis was "The Development of Piedmont North Carolina Soils."

During the latter part of the summer Dr. Cobb was given a temporary appointment with the U. S. Soil Survey Service, in which work he made a soil survey of part of Watauga County.

Dr. Cobb was also an important figure when the International Congress of Soil Science met at Washington, D. C., this summer from June 13th to 22d. The purpose of this congress was to enable soil men to make use of work done in soils by men in other parts of the world. A minor purpose was to make a world-wide uniform soil classification, as well as to devise standard methods of investigation of the biology and chemistry of soils.

It is very interesting to note that four North Carolina men were on the committee for getting up the congress. These men were as follows: Wm. B. Cobb, professor at N. C. State College; W. H. McIntyre, J. H. White, and G. S. Frapps, graduates of N. C. State College. The men from North Carolina who presented papers before the congress were as follows: L. G. Willis, soil chemist at this station; I. V. Shunk, of the Department of Botany at N. C. State College; Wm. B. Cobb, professor of Soils at N. C. State College.

Dr. Cobb was also on the committee for the classification and nomenclature of soils.

The delegates to this congress came from all parts of the world, each country being represented by its ablest men in soils. It was a great honor for Dr. Cobb to be chosen as a delegate from North Carolina to this congress.

The next congress will meet in Russia in 1930, and it is considered very likely that Dr. Cobb will be chosen as a delegate from North Carolina to this congress.

At the end of the congress the American Organizing Committee gave the foreign delegates a tour of the United States, to study the various soil types. This tour included North Carolina, where they stopped at Greensboro, where they studied soil types of Guilford and Randolph counties.

Thus during the past summer Dr. Cobb has been very busy, and has brought much honor to himself as well as to the college.

He: Look up, Brown Eyes.
She: No; if I do you'll kiss me.
He: Honest, I won't.
She: Then what's the use of looking up?

Ain't It a Grand and Glorious Feelin'?

Imagine yourself with your nerves shattered in an automobile accident, and the girl whom you love insisting that you drive her father's car in a cross-country road race before she will marry you. This is the predicament in which Reginald Denny finds himself in his most recent picture, "Fast and Furious." To be shown at the State Theatre next Monday and Tuesday. The comedy star of "Rolling Home," "Skinner's Dress Suit," and "The Cheerful Fraud," wrote the original story himself, and, according to reports from those who have seen this picture, Denny knows the type of story that suits him best. This speedy comedy has to do with a nervous young man who to gain favor with his girl's father is forced to pose as a noted race driver. The comic situations in which he finds himself promise a most interesting bit of entertainment.

Wallace Beery and Raymond Hatton have fought in the army, swabbed decks in the navy, dodged submarines, and now they complete the service cycle by donning flyers' costumes and soaring aloft in "Now We're in the Air," which will be at the State Theatre next Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday.

With this last service picture already on the screen, folks are beginning to wonder what the next step will be. Louise Brooks, who plays the part of herself and twin, Russell Simpson, Duke Martin, and Emile Chautaud do noble work in completing the cast for "Now We're in the Air."

At the beginning of "Tin Gods," which is showing at the CAPITOL Theatre next Wednesday Dr. McCoy and the Padre watch Roger Drake enter a little church at Del Rio. It is built on a cliff projecting below a towering bridge. The priest asks about the man and McCoy recounts his life.

Flashback
A rising young engineer, Drake marries Janet Stone, ambitious daughter of a wealthy man. In the palatial home given them, Roger neglects his career. A baby boy is born. Janet becomes a candidate for the State Assembly. Their home, is a political stamping ground. Drake comes to blows with one of the habitues and Janet scathingly denounces his conduct. One day the child disturbs a meeting. Janet's secretary locks him in his nursery. The boy falls from an open window to his death, and the couple decide to follow their own separate paths.

Drake secretly takes to drink and goes to construct a bridge at Del Rio, South America. Tactless and disagreeable, Roger is the only man unaffected by the blandishments of Carita, a dancing girl. When stricken with black fever, it is she who cares for him.

Tony Santelli, the cafe proprietor, shows Carita a newspaper which gives an account of Janet's campaign. On being defeated, the latter decides to visit Drake and effect a reconciliation. Carita, thinking he still loves his wife, leaps from the bridge.

And so Roger returns each year to a chapel he has erected in memory of the one beautiful episode of his life.

While in no sense a sequel to "The Vanishing American," that classic of the American Indian, "Drums of the Desert," which comes to the CAPITOL next Saturday, is very much in the nature of a successor. It was made, we are told, in exactly the same locale. In the current production, while the story is basically concerned with the Indians, in that the machinations of unscrupulous whites to obtain possession of the Indian oil lands afford the plot's menace, the action is seen through the eyes of the white principals. There is John Curry, friend of the Indians, who manfully endeavors to frustrate a conspiracy against them; and then there are Mary Manton and Professor Manton, her father, innocent bystanders, who are drawn into the vortex together with their companions, Painless Perkins and Hi-Lo.

Always in the background are the Indians, guarding their sacred altars from invasion.

Shirley Mason comes to the SUPERBA Theatre next Monday and Tuesday. She plays Sally Williams, a wholesome tenement waif who helps her mother, a poor laundry worker. Her mother dies and Sally is adopted by three kindly old men. Sally brightens the home for this unusual trio, and is happy in her surroundings. But a wealthy aunt returns from abroad and invites Sally to make her home with her. She is not over-enthused at the opportunity, but her unselfish foster-fathers persuade her that it is for her own benefit. Sally is introduced into society and has many wealthy suitors, but the thought of Jimmie, the plumber lad, who loves her so devotedly, prompts Sally to disregard her even social position. There comes a day when Sally must make a decision and we have a delightful finish with the story ending just as you would want it to end.

By far the most thrilling picture of Col. Tim McCoy has ever made!

That is a terse description of "Foreign Devils," the new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer historical film drama which opens at the SUPERBA Theatre Friday and Saturday.

It is based on authentic details of one of the most sensational episodes in modern history.

As the American military attaches to the legation at Peking, McCoy has a chance to put over a lot of fun before launching into the thrills, which come thick and fast as the plot develops.

Douglas MacLean in "Soft Cushions" is coming to the SUPERBA Theatre Wednesday and Thursday of next week. Sue Carol, playing opposite "Doug," acts the part of an Oriental slave girl and shows how easily man's heart is won.

JOHN COWPER POWYS SAYS OUR POETS BEAT BRITON

Considers Edgar Lee Masters Most Outstanding Verse Writer

That American poets are greater than English was the contention of John Cowper Powys before an almost full house in Pullen Hall Wednesday night, when he spoke on the subject of "Modern English and American Poetry."

Mr. Powys confined his talk to the living poets of America and England. He first took up the English poets that he thought were the greatest, giving their main work, personality, and characteristics.

These English poets were D. V. Yeates and Walter De La Mere, the former being an Irishman with Irish temperament, the latter being born in England proper.

He next took up the American poets, giving them in order that he thought they ranked, the first being Edgar Lee Masters, the second being Lindsay, the third being St. Vincent Molay, and the fourth being Wallace Stephens. He treated them as he did the Englishmen in telling of their works, personality, and characters.

The audience was pleased in several places by his recitation of poetry written by these men, and also in his telling of the poets he liked and disliked.

Mr. Powys was introduced by Professor J. D. Clark, of the English department at State College, who told of the speaker's connection with literature in that he was in the extension service of Oxford and Cambridge universities.

The audience was at some times handicapped by the English accent of the speaker. Due to the fact that the lecture was made so interesting, this was completely forgotten by the end of the lecture.

RANDOLPH-MACON WILL PLAY NAVY

Yellow Jackets Have a Game Scheduled With Navy Junior Varsity Next Week

Two weeks from now the Yellow Jackets will swarm southward to Annapolis to meet the Junior varsity of the United States Naval Academy in a game of football that will be followed with interest by football enthusiasts throughout the state and alumni of the college.

So far the best team the Jackets have encountered in their meandering through the confines of the state colleges has been the Roanoke Maroons, and it will be interesting to note the result of the game with the understudies of the powerful Middle, Bridgewater and Hampden-Sidney have been taken into camp by the Welchmen, while Lynchburg and Richmond have administered defeat to the Ashlanders. Roanoke was held scoreless for four quarters and the game was consigned to football lore as a scoreless deadlock. Juanita College of Pennsylvania will be met next Saturday and the following Saturday the hirelings of "Gus" Delch will go north again to meet the Baby Middle, who boast of a successful season with a string of victories and few defeats.

An interesting announcement that is being waited on the air by football gossips is the one concerning a post-season game with Emory and Henry College, although no definite announcement can be made by the athletic authorities to secure a match with the Wasps. The Emory and Henry gridgers have amassed a total of almost 300 points this year and scored on the University of Tennessee. It will be remembered that the Volunteers crushed the Virginia Cavaliers in their game last week. Thus, it is probable that the next three opponents the Jackets will face on the gridiron will be the Navy Junior Varsity, Juanita and Emory and Henry.

TUCKER CHOSEN HEAD OF FRESHMAN CLASS

Fitzgerald, Vice-President; Shelor, Secretary-Treasurer—Poet To Be Competitively Selected

In an enthusiastic and peppery meeting Thursday night the freshmen elected class officers for the first year. A. H. Tucker, of Wilmington, was chosen president, after a hard race with J. L. Whitehead; J. L. Fitzgerald, of Asheville, made a runaway of the vice-presidency; Robert Shelor, of Sumter, S. C., nosed out Dick Hutchinson, of Wilmington, for the secretary-treasurer job. The same Hutchinson was chosen for historian.

It was decided to select a class poet by ability rather than popularity. Candidates were asked to submit samples of their work. The class poet will be elected at some future meeting of the freshmen on the merit of the various verses submitted.

Following the freshmen meeting the Court of Customs convened. Two cases were brought before Judge Hodgins. Harry Manushak was accused of the crime of not wearing a freshman cap. He pleaded not guilty. The jury found him guilty in the third degree, recommending mercy. Manushak was sentenced to wearing the freshman cap.

C. E. Woodall was brought before the court for not wearing his freshman cap as prescribed in the "bible." He pleaded not guilty. H. G. Love and J. D. McCall appeared as witnesses. Woodall was found guilty in the first degree and was sentenced to a gauntlet of two hundred sophomores.

TAR HEELS TO PLAY DAVIDSON IN KENAN MEMORIAL STADIUM

Last of North Carolina Opponents Will Be Met in New $300,000 Concrete Memorial Stadium November 12; Will Be Formally Dedicated at the Turkey Day Game With Virginia to the University by William Rand Kenan, Jr., will be used for the first time for the Davidson game, which will be played November 12, according to information from the office of C. T. Woollen, graduate manager of athletics.

Davidson will be the last North Carolina team to be played at Chapel Hill this season. While the attendance will hardly equal that of the Virginia game, advance sale of tickets indicates that a large crowd will be present.

The stadium will not be dedicated until the annual Virginia game, which is set for Thanksgiving. Work has been nearly completed on the field house, and the seats are almost all numbered, which, when done, will finish the construction, which has been under way since last Thanksgiving and has caused considerable worry at times when it appeared that it could not be finished in time for the final game of the season.—Tar Heel.
